Sir.,

With reference to your D.O. NO: G:8 dated 8th June 1910 requesting to infimate the approximate hour of receipt of the telegram proclaiming George V as King Emperor &c, I have the honor to state that the telegram which was delivered to the peons in my Fort House late about 7 O'Clock in the evening on the 9th was sent to me at the Mansion at 6-30 A.M. on the 10th May 1910 i.e. on the morning of the day next to that on which the flags were ordered to be hoisted and salute guns fired. The telegram stated that the above functions had to be done at 5. P.M. on the 9th May 1910 while the message itself has been presented for transmission at Bangalore at 5-30 P.M. on that date. Soon after the receipt of the telegram it was sent in original to the Officer in charge of Palace Establishments for needful action, who wired to OOTY for orders and did the needful on the 10th idem.

The mention that the message was received in this this office late in the evening on the 10th May 1910 is evidently a clerical error.

Sir,

In continuation of this office letter No.1501 T.C. dated the 31st of May'10, I have the honour to inform you that the Express telegram in question reached the Mysore Telegraph office at /7.44 hours (Standard Time) on 9th May'10 and was immediately sent out for delivery. It was delivered at the Deputy Commissioner's Bungalow at the Fort to one Chennappa in accordance with Rule 80 of the Indian Telegraph Guide. The peon returned at about 18.30 after effecting delivery. On the following morning another telegram addressed to the Deputy Commissioner was, as usual taken to the Bungalow for delivery but the man on duty there asked the messenger to take it over to the Deputy Commissioner's mansion and also requested him to take the telegram under complaint there. This the peon did with a view to obliging the man which apparently has led the addressee to believe that the telegram was delayed in delivery though such was not the case.

I have the honour to be,

Sir,

Your most obedient servant.
